

WHAT DOES BETRAYAL LOOK LIKE?

SUMMER 2021- YEAR 5

Through this project, children will unpick the concepts of betrayal and forgiveness. They will explore these themes through stories such as 'The Tempest' and 'Treason' by Berlie Doherty. They will also investigate what betrayal looked like in the past using historical events throughout the Tudor and Stuart eras. As they develop a better understanding about betrayal, they will begin to recognise situations where it is acceptable to betray someone's trust in order to stay protected.

Drama will help the children, as they collaborate within their groups, to create the plots for their stories.

Children will apply their art skills and choose a style of drawing that is most appropriate for their puppets.

Resilience and patience will be essential when rehearsing and performing the puppet shows in order to create a high-quality performance to impress the children's new Y6 teachers.

What does betrayal look like?

Outcome 1- Writing a story with a theme of betrayal.

Outcome 2- Puppets

Outcome 3- Rehearsing a performance of our betrayal story using our puppets.

Final Outcome- Performing our puppet show to our new Y6 teachers

WIFE NEEDED

Source No	DESCRIBE + EXPLAIN: What can you learn from the source about Henry VIII?	Who wrote it / said it? Who were they?	Can you trust it? YOU MUST EXPLAIN WHY!
0	I can learn that Henry was a horrible man. The source says he was 'cruel' and had 'many people' killed.	The Earl of Bedford, 1534	I think I can trust the source because it was written during the Tudor period and the Earl knew Henry and helped him run the country.
③	"he is England's most cruel and detestable tyrant."	pope Clement VII in 1530	yes because the pope and Henry the VIII have fallen out and Henry is a horrible person so he's saying terrible things.
④	"He is rich, generous and greedy for glory."	Nachaven! He was an Italian physician, friend and adviser.	saying nice things
⑦ ⑩	"He is a very well educated man, he speaks four languages. He has a great love of poetry. He is a very religious man..."	English Bishop in 1524	yes because he is religious and he has great love and he is well educated.
⑪	I and my heart put ourselves in your hands. Mine own darling... if you were in my arms, I'd be young for ever. I love you.	King Henry the VIII	No because he killed his six wives and divorced them. He changed Anne's religion.

Reason

His Majesty is seeking for his love of his wife. Previously, Anne Boleyn had been beheaded for her actions. His despoise. Are you the one?

Appearance

As the door swings open, Henry VIII stands out with his muscular body and his lustrous, golden brown beard. As the sun light hits Henry's silky, smooth face his marvellous, hazel eye glister in the sun light. He is the most handsome person I know with amazing sense of style.

Personality

This magnificent king is known for being a generous husband. He's loyal, gentle and would never hurt his wife unless she disoibred him. He is honest and will do any thing to protect you.

Ending

If your intrested of having a luxury life come in you best outfit and come to the palace on 1429. Well be waiting!

History (Lesson 4)

Let's build an overview of world history

Let's describe the world, either cultural or religious diversity of past society

He stopped 2 countries from making war. he was a catholic

Edward was born king at nine, and died in 15. He was protestant.

Elizabeth never married. She was protestant. She was more understanding.

Henry had 6 wives and he made himself the head of the church to divorce his wife. He changed his religion

Mary killed so much people that she was called bloody mary. She was catholic

Gunpowder plot FAILED!

Who tried to kill the king?

- Thomas Winter
- Robert Catesby
- Guido Fawkes
- Thomas Percy
- John Wright
- Christopher Wright
- Robert Winter
- Bates

They got executed and their heads were on display.

How was the plan uncovered?
 someone probably heard a ^{noise} ^{conspiration} in the basement. In the room ^{near} ^{was} ^{one} to the King ^{was} ^{uncovered} by a ^{man} ^{who} ^{heard} ^{every} ^{word} ^{and} ^{was} ^{on} ^{the} ^{roof} ^{and} ^a ^{couple} ^{of} ^{them} ^{were} ^{involved}.

The Gunpowder Plot

Even though Guy Fawkes was anxious, he forced himself to look through the rusty key-hole of the cellar. Guy Fawkes was so tall that he had to crouch down. He could see the king and his servants. All of a sudden, he heard approaching footsteps the soldiers footsteps approaching. The door opened. Who are you? asked one of the soldiers. Guy Fawkes could not find the words. He was full of fear.

The soldiers in question were called Charles and James Tall brown haired. James was serious about everything. On the other hand, Charles couldn't care less. He just wanted to get it over with. He was short and chubby with blonde hair, it was so long that it covered his whole face. Guy Fawkes glared at the soldier as they approached the firewood. His heart was beating rapidly. Why was there so much firewood in such a small house? Underneath the firewood was 36 barrels of gunpowder, ^{enough} ^{to} ^{blow} ^{up} ^{parliament} ^{and} ^{everyone} ⁱⁿ ^{it}! Guy Fawkes stared at the soldier. Was this it? Did he blow his cover? Did the plan fail? They removed the firewood. They saw the gunpowder. Immediately, the soldiers dragged him across the cold, stony floor, not even caring if he was hurt or not! However, Guy Fawkes would not give himself up without a fight. He fought like he had never fought before but the soldiers still managed to get a grip of him. Fawkes knew he blew it. He let his fellow conspirators down. It was all his fault.

Before he knew it, he was standing in front of the king. "Is this him?" questioned the king. "Yes, sir," replied James in a proud voice. The king began asking Er Guy Fawkes questions. Loads of questions. Who? Why? How? Fawkes didn't reply to a single question. By the time they got to the last question, Fawkes face was covered with crimson. Will he survive? Was this the end?

"You're in jail," shouted the soldier. "Not yet let's fight!" 2 vs 1 ^{was} ^{not} ^{fair}. Suddenly Fawkes lost. A ship now ^{was} ⁱⁿ ^{anger}. "Why did you try to kill me?" Fawkes didn't answer. Fawkes got ^{carried} ^{by} ^{stretcher}. Fawkes told the names of the plotters. All 11 got beheaded and put on spikes. The city crows all the flesh. That was the day bomb firenight was created. The End.

Why did people want to kill the King?
 Because James I said church, Satan and magic he is catholic church.

Sisters Betrayal

You would think when a child hears they are having a sibling, they would be happy, right? Not Lia! Lia is the oldest child but when Mina (her little sister) came, she got less attention. Lia despised her sister as she was always seen as the perfect child. It was like Mina took over Lia's life although she didn't mean to. Mina loved her sister. She was kind-hearted and she treated everyone fairly, including her mean sister Lia. Mina believed in forgiveness and second chances. Eventually, Lia was fed up of her sister taking all the spotlight, so she decided to make her sister disappear.

She came up with a devious plan. The next morning, Mina woke up to the sweet smell of pancakes. As she opened her eyes, she saw her sister standing near her bed with a tray of freshly made breakfast. She couldn't believe it! "Am I still dreaming?" she thought to herself. "This is my way of apologising for my unacceptable behaviour. Please forgive me," begged Lia politely. Mina, being the kind-hearted girl she was, accepted this heart-felt apology. Little did Mina know, Lia was only being nice to gain her sister's trust.

"Why don't we go for a walk?" urged Lia.
"And we can have a picnic together!" said Mina. Mina hurried to get the bag of snacks ready. A few minutes later, Mina came back with a bag of food and they set off for their journey. On the way, Mina was excited about having a lovely day, on the other hand, Lia couldn't wait to spring her plan into action. "Look a well!" shouted Lia.
"Let's take a picture for mum and dad," said Mina.
"Stand here," said Lia. Lia took the picture. "Do you like it?" asked Lia. Before Mina could speak, Lia pushed her into the well!

After recovering from the shock of being thrown into the well, Mina started thinking. How could her own sister do this to her? She could feel bitterness rising from her feet. A wave of anger flooded over her. Lia deserved a punishment and she needed to learn her lesson!

A few hours later, an old couple went out to water their plants only to hear a sweet voice crying for help. The voice led to a well. "Oh, are you okay sweetie?" gasped one of them. Mina didn't reply as she was speechless and full of shock. The old man gave her a helping hand out of the well.

Without saying thank you, Mina ran off back to her home. On the way, Mina remembered that she saw a bee nest on a tree and came up with a great plan. She saw her sister coming back from a sweet shop, so she had to act fast. She got a stick and without a doubt she wacked the bee nest and the bees attacked Lia!

Mina froze. "What have I done?" she ~~whispered~~ whispered. She dashed back home and burst out crying and told her parents everything. They had no time to waste, they rushed to the hospital. "Mina, I'm so sorry for my unacceptable behaviour, I understand if you don't forgive me." Mina didn't have to have to forgive her but she remembered to give second chances to everyone, so she gave one to Lia.

The invisible Sikama

A mysterious character robbed the city bank, no lasers affected him, nothing did... this man must be immortal, or was he?

The man was a theft master.

He was just about to rob the bank when the hero known as Sikama came and faced the guy. "You do know it's bad to steal right?" said Sikama.

He used his best vision to see who he really was, it was... no other than Vironic!

He couldn't believe his biggest fan would betray him by using his inventions against the world.

But Vironic threw him out of the building and escaped.

Back at Vironic's base, he was pacing up and down because he was so frustrated that he had been so stupid!

Why did he allow Sikama to find out his identity? He knew he had to destroy Sikama... quickly! Suddenly, he had an idea! He remembered Sikama's biggest weakness... doughnuts! Explosive doughnuts!

Explosion

That afternoon, Vironic made a special trip to the local bakery. He bought the sweetest, stickiest, largest doughnut in the shop. Once Vironic returned to his base, he started to put his evil plan into action. He planted a bomb inside the scrumptious-looking doughnut and left it on a stall with a sign that said "free doughnuts" on Sikama's street.

Sikama couldn't believe his eyes! He walked like a zombie towards his favourite treat and of course he chose the biggest doughnut. His mouth was already drooling as he took his first big bite. KABOOOOOM! He was left standing there with smoke coming from his hands and black teeth!

Meanwhile, Vironic was spying on the whole event with a camera connected to his phone. As soon as he saw the explosion, he let out a high-pitched scream. He instantly regretted what he'd done to his old partner. He walked over to Sikama slowly with his eyes staring at the ground.

"Vironic, it's you! Why did you do this to me? I could've died!" exclaimed Sikama.

"I'm so sorry! I regret what I have done. Please forgive me!" replied Vironic.

"As long as you promise to never betray me again, I'll forgive you!"

For the rest of time, Vironic became Sikama's sidekick once again. They saved millions of people from disaster.
